“ Bert and I were friends for several years. I lost track of him some time ago but often wondered where and how he fared. Guess I will never be able to tell him now that his belts were left hanging on the curtain rod in the spare room..[smile] RIP Bert. Thanks for the good times.

“ I enjoyed working with Bert the last 7 or 8 years that he was here in Gulfport at the SeaBee base before he retired. At lunch time he had 2 or 3 ravens that would perch on the power lines outside our shop and wait for Bert to toss anything he didn't eat out for them. If he was either late or didn't have anything for them they would caw and caw to let him know their displeasure. At which point, Bert would go and "talk" to them about not being able to have everything their way every day,---and they seemed to understand and quit making noise. After he retired I tried to make it a point to visit him at his trailer to check up on him, especially after he went on oxygen and had to give up on cigarettes.
A lot of us will miss him and his funny ways. Rest easy and well my friend for your in a better place, BUT you will be missed by us.
